

WELCOME TO OUR ISPCAN MONTHLY JOURNAL CLUB

JANE ESTES — KNOWLEDGE & CONTENT DEVELOPMENT MANAGER FOR ISPCAN

ISPCAN JOURNAL CLUB

Expertise. Research. Impact. Action

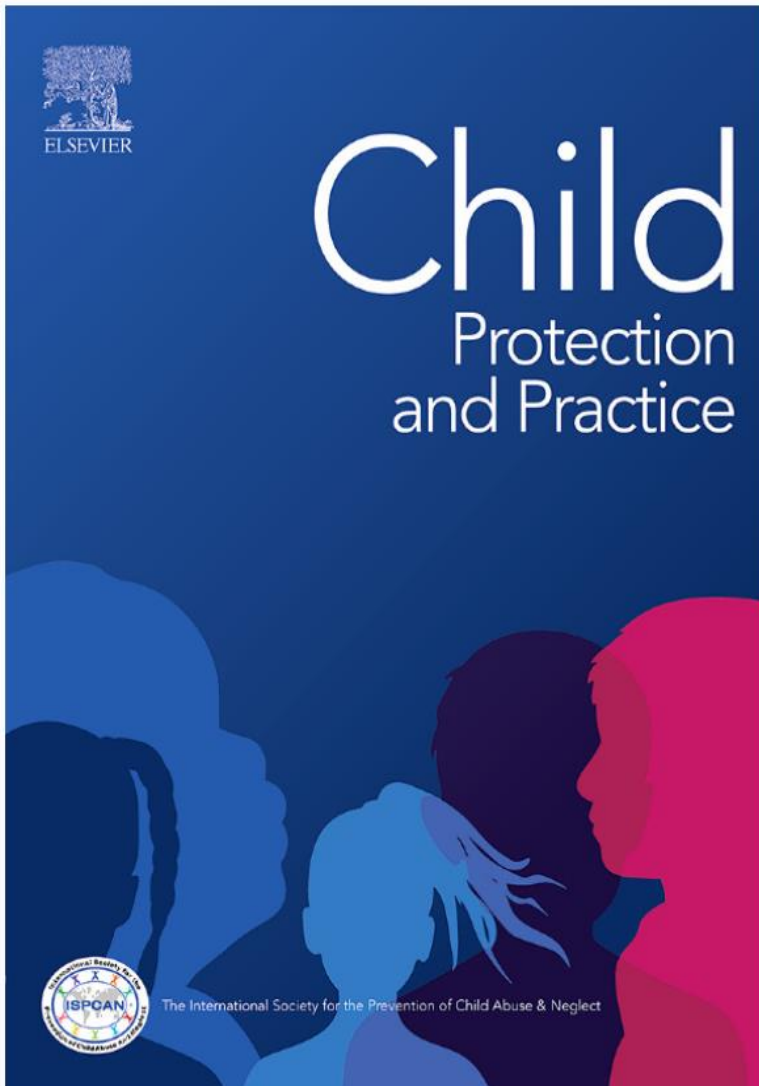

ISPCAN's Monthly International Journal Clubs are always FREE of charge and cover diverse research topics which are presented by subject-matter experts from around the globe.

These 90-minute webinars are designed to help “YOU” our members and partners in the ISPCAN community gain access to knowledge and expertise to; inform care, improve practice and drive policy change – all this is critical to help improve outcomes for children globally.

Today's Topic:

HOW TO PUBLISH
IN THE CHILD PROTECTION AND PRACTICE JOURNAL

EXPERT TIPS FROM THE
NEW JOURNAL
EDITORS

TIPS FOR MAKING THE MOST OF TODAY'S SESSION

PLEASE ENGAGE WITH US!

This session is meant to be an active - interactive learning platform. Please participate by sharing your comments in the Chat and your questions in the Q&A Box throughout the webinar. We will use your questions to begin the Q&A session immediately at the conclusion of the presentations.

PLEASE! Take a moment to introduce yourself to other attendees, our moderators and our featured presenters in the Chat Box. Let us know where you are joining from and your organization and discipline. *Please participate in our Zoom Polling questions as this informs our discussion.

To enhance your experience - you may enable Closed Captioning from your ZOOM control bar and choosing "Captions". This may be located under the three dots listing "More" options

For joining us today, a recording of this session and the panel discussion + presentation slides and links to the featured resources will be sent directly to you after the webinar.

ISPCAN PROUDLY PRESENTS – NEW OPEN ACCESS JOURNAL

We are bringing data to action with this new practice-based journal focused on solutions and outcomes for children.

Working at the interface of academics and the field, the new journal brings multi-sectoral child protection and child safeguarding research and practice into constructive and collaborative dialogue.

Our goal is to facilitate innovative solutions to complex public policy and service challenges and promote a shared global knowledge and evidence-based prevention and response agenda.

KEY LEARNING OBJECTIVES FOR TODAY'S SESSION

To help set potential new authors up for success by going through the basic submission guidelines and strategies for many who may have not been published before.

Identify multiple types of contributions that can create outcome-oriented articles that will directly impact child protection research, evidence-generation, and practice.

To walk through a submission checklist identifying support opportunities for those new to academic publishing and discuss the issues of determining the right type of academic submissions for evidence-based work.

INSIGHTS ON:

How to publish the work of your NGO or institution

How to publish innovative programs

Tips for publishing work at the intersection policy and practice

Publishing lessons learned from research and partnerships

How to publish lessons learned through implementing guidelines and frameworks

How to publish practice-based learning outcomes

MEET OUR PRESENTERS

The Child Protection and Practice Editors

Dr. Christine Wekerle

Editor-in-Chief at Child Abuse & Neglect

Co-Editor-in-Chief for Elsevier and ISPCAN's new journal, Child Protection and Practice

Dr. Christine Wekerle has a background in Clinical Psychology and is the current Editor-in-Chief at Child Abuse & Neglect; The International Journal finishing her 9-year term in 2024.

She is also a Co-Editor-in-Chief for Elsevier and ISPCAN's new journal, Child Protection and Practice

Her academic affiliations are in Pediatrics, as well as Psychiatry, at McMaster University in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada.

Dr. Wekerle's extensive youth resilience research is available at

<https://www.ohneganos.com/> and <https://youthresilience.net/>

Dr. Catherine Maternowska

Honorary Professor of Violence Prevention for Young People at the University of Edinburgh

Kati brings three decades of applied research and programming spanning the Americas, Africa and Asia focusing on violence prevention and response, child protection, and sexual and reproductive health designed to improve policy and practice.

Her practice is grounded in public health, leveraging the strength of cross-disciplinary approaches. She has a keen interest in knowledge systems that are responsive to both practice-based learning and evidence-based research

She co-founded the Childhood Sexual Violence Solutions Hub a dynamic practitioner-centered platform to build, transform and mobilize knowledge to end childhood sexual violence globally while actively addressing knowledge inequalities between high income countries and low- and middle-income countries.

WHAT INSIGHTS ON HOW TO PUBLISH WERE YOU HOPING TO GAIN FROM TODAY'S SESSION?

